DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1- 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Lockwood et al. (6974417). Lockwood et al. disclose an ultrasound transducer array for imaging comprising an ultrasonic transducer having a piezoelectric polymer film adapted to transmit an ultrasonic acoustic signal from a front face along a signal path and a metallic backer plate adhered to a rear face of the piezoelectric polymer film (col. 4 lines 39-col. 5 line 18). It is well known in the art to fill the grooves cut into the transducer with a soft polymer material(col. 1 lines 59-col. 2 line 4). The device includes a support structure supporting the metallic backer plate and having an acoustic impedance different from the backer plate (fig. 4). The piezoelectric polymer film provides separate electrical connections to an outer annular portion surrounding an independently supported annular inner center portion (col. 5 lines 42-col. 6 line 9). Lockwood et al. teach said backing layer to be of a material such as tungsten-loaded epoxy or alumina-loaded epoxy with a thickness of about 0.5 to 15 mm (col. 5 lines 15-18). The arrays include 64 elements, a single front quarter-wavelength matching layer, and a high loss, high impedance backing layer (col. 10 lines 18-34). The elements are defined by evaporating a chrome-gold electrode through a thin stainless steel mask onto the back surface of a 1.0 mm disk with electrical connections made to individual electrodes on the back surface with a 2 cm thick backing layer (col. 10 lines 35-59). The system enables non-destructive imaging for biomedical applications to capture a 3D ultrasound image of an anatomy of interest (col. 7 lines 13-45).
